

A photograph of two men in a modern industrial setting, likely a factory or workshop. The man on the left, Andreas Eichler, is wearing a blue polo shirt and jeans, holding a curved metal part. The man on the right, Georg Schober, is wearing a striped t-shirt and shorts, also holding the same part. They are both smiling. In the background, there are large windows and industrial machinery, including a green machine on the left and a grey machine on the right.
